JESUS AND THE TEN COMMANDMENTS

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 5:17-19: 19:16-22: John 8:33, 40.

GOLDEN TEXT—Think not that I am come to destroy the law, or the prophets: I am come to fulfill it. Matthew 5:17.

With this lesson we begin a series of studies which should be of unusual value, a consideration of the Ten Commandments in the light of the teachings of Jesus, and other related New Testament passages.

It is appropriate to point out that, far from being outmoded, the Ten Commandments are really the basis of all moral law. They need a diligent study and re-emphasis in our day of disregard of moral standards.

As interpreted by the Lord Jesus and applied to our daily living, the truth of these commandments should be brought home to every boy and girl, man and woman in our Bible schools.

We learn here that our Lord did not come to set aside or destroy the law, but to fulfill it in the most complete way. But the gospel takes us a step beyond the law, and it is a great step, for we follow the One who is greater than the law.

I. Built on the Law (Matt. 5:17-20).

The law of God is eternal, never to be abrogated, never set aside. Christ Himself, although we must properly say that He was in reality the Lawgiver and thus had power and authority over the law, indicated His purpose in coming to be that of giving the law its full meaning, not of destroying it. One could wish that those who profess to be His servants might have the same measure of regard for God's law. If they did, they obviously would not be so ready to ignore it, so quick to change it or explain it away, and far more ready to accept with their Master every "lot and title," that is, the minutest detail of His Word.

Recognizing Christ as the fulfiller of the law should prepare one to manifest obedience to every moral precept through His grace.

II. More Than the Law (Matt. 19:16-22).

Obedience to the commandments brings a man up to the very entrance upon life, but to enter in, he must have more than the "things" of the law; he must have the Person who is "the Door" to eternal life.

The young man who came to Christ was rich. His mind was obsessed with things. He had made it his business to obey the law, and he had done well (v. 20), but his soul was not satisfied. He thought one "thing" to do would accomplish his purpose.

The general attitude of the man was commendable. He sensed his lack of the vital something which would make his life. He came to the right one—the Lord Jesus—with his question.

His failure to go beyond the things of the law to a faith in Christ, however, showed that he loved his possessions more than he desired to follow the Lord.

Those in our day who are trying to please God and gain eternal blessing by works, by doing things and keeping commandments, need to recognize that in Christianity we have the One who is more than the law. They need to look away from things to be done, to the great thing that was done once and for all on Calvary.

III. Greater Than the Law (John 8:33, 40).

The Scriptures are great because they bear witness to the Christ who can give life. But obviously the One to whom they bear witness is greater than they are.

Paul speaks of the law as a "schoolmaster to bring us to Christ" (Gal. 3:24). The picture is literally of a servant charged with bringing the child to school where he may learn the truth. So the law convicts man of sin, makes him conscious of his own utter inability to meet God's requirements, and makes him ready to turn to Christ in faith and repentance (Rom. 3:20).

These men of our Lord's time were very religious. They spent much of their time searching the Scriptures that they might find eternal life. But most of them failed to understand that the life they sought was in the One who stood before them in faith and repentance (Rom. 3:20).

That is a vital bearing on the proper study of the lessons of this quarter. "The time has passed when men must seek life in the Scriptures apart from Jesus. Now that Jesus has come, life can be found only if the Scriptures lead one to Jesus."

A copy of the study of the Scriptures does not bring us to Christ, then it is vain indeed. For that reason we cannot study the Ten Commandments without turning constantly to Jesus as the One who is greater than the law" (Lesson Commentary).

What to Do

By PUYALLUP WILLIAMS

A dry-dock cleaning for your upholstered furniture and rugs will brighten your home considerably. Although this method is slow, it gives good results when properly done.

Make a soap jelly, using mild soap and water—five parts water and one part soap. When the jelly sets, take a cup of it and put it in a mixing bowl and beat with an egg beater. Dip a damp sponge or brush into this foam and rub it on a small area of the article to be cleaned. After a minute or so, wipe this area with a clean damp cloth. Repeat this process on overlapping areas until the whole article is finished.

When this job is done correctly the article cleaned will not get wet, merely damp—and will dry in an hour.

Assie Soldiers Sell

'Genuine Tobruk Sand'

CAIRO, EGYPT.—A laugh was provoked by two Australian soldiers who were enjoying their leave mightily until they found themselves at a furniture store with combined resources 10 cents short of their needs.

One hastily retired to the street, seized a handbag from a heap, hoisted it to his shoulder and returned to the soldier, shouting, "Tobruk sand! Genuine Tobruk sand! Take home a souvenir." His pal solemnly explained it was straight from the front and only two pilsners (10 cents).

A delighted waiter paid the money and bore the trophy proudly away while the Australians drank their beer and wondered if they weren't the first entrepreneurs to sell sand in Egypt.

T. E. Owen, Supervisor, Buried Sat.

Funeral services for T. E. Owen, 70, were held Saturday from the Red Oak Baptist Church at Oakville. Burial was in the church cemetery. Rev. A. C. Lawson officiated.

Mr. Owen was an outstanding citizen of the county, was a successful farmer and a member of the Appomattox County Board of Supervisors, representing the Stone wall district. He had been in declining health for some time, but his death came as a great loss to the county.

He was the son of Nicholas W. Owen and Mrs. Louisa Carson Owen. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Owen, and three sons, Mr. J. E. Owen, Mr. E. H. Carson, and one daughter, Mrs. C. M. Stratton, both of Concord, and five nephews.

A leader in affairs of his county and community, his death removes another fine citizen from the county, and we extend deepest sympathy to the bereaved family.
